

US Consumer Privacy Notice

Prudential values your business and your trust. We respect the privacy of your personal information and take our responsibility to protect it seriously. This privacy notice is provided on behalf of the Prudential companies listed at the end of this notice and applies to our current and former customers. This notice describes how we treat the information we receive about you, including the ways in which we will disclose your personal information within Prudential and your right to opt out of such disclosing.

Protecting Your Personal Information

We maintain physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards to protect your personal information in accordance with applicable law. These measures include but are not limited to computer safeguards and secured files and buildings. The people authorized to access your personal information need it to do their jobs, and we require that they keep your information secure and confidential.

Categories of Personal Information We Collect

We collect your personal information from you, such as when you fill out applications and other forms, when you visit or enter personal details on our websites, when you respond to our emails, and when you provide information over the telephone. We also collect personal information about you indirectly, such as through third parties, such as employers, credit bureaus, and other financial institutions. Collectively, this personal information includes, for example:

- Personal Identifiers: Name, address, email address, telephone number, other contact information, and Government ID
- Financial and Employment Information: Employment and occupation, demographic, income, and financial information, transaction history
- Information related to Health: Information related to health for insurance applications & products
- Consumer Reports & Third-Party Data: Consumer reports from consumer reporting agencies, participant information from organizations that purchase products or services from us for the benefit of their members or employees
- Biometric and Sensory Data: Video and audio recordings, and biometric data
- Internet or Network Activity: Information gathered from your internet or network activity
- Internal Investigations: Information gathered as part of internal investigations

We do not control the accuracy of information outside sources give us. If you want to make any changes to information we receive from others about you, you must contact those sources.

Using Your Personal Information

We may use the categories of personal information listed above for various business purposes, including:

- Normal everyday business purposes, such as providing services to you, administering your products, account, or policy, running our business, and processing claims and other transactions
- Strategic planning and effectuating certain business relationships and partnerships
- Business research and analysis
- Data analytics, modeling (such as predictive modeling), the deployment of automated tools, and in certain instances, artificial intelligence in accordance with applicable law or other regulatory guidance
- Marketing products and services of Prudential and other companies that may interest you
- Detecting and preventing identity theft, fraud, or misuse of your accounts
- As required by law or to comply with applicable laws

Disclosing Your Personal Information

We may disclose the categories of personal information listed above, including information about your transactions and experiences, for the following:

- We share information among Prudential companies and with non-Prudential companies that provide services for our business needs, such as account/policy administration and marketing.
- Limited information may be shared with business partners and service providers to manage business partnerships.
- We may disclose your information to another financial institution if you consent to transfer your account or policy.

- We share information as permitted or required by law, including with law enforcement and regulators, in response to subpoenas, and to prevent fraud.
- For products obtained through an employer or organization-sponsored plan, we disclose information as allowed by the plan agreement or our agreement with you.
- We may share consumer report information among Prudential companies, including information from credit reports and other sources, but you can limit this sharing as described in this notice.

We do not share your personal information or phone number with non-Prudential companies for their marketing or text messaging purposes without your consent. We may tell you about a product or service other companies offer and, if you respond, that company will know we selected you to receive the information. Prudential companies may contact you via text messaging only with your prior express written consent.

Note: PGIM, Inc. and its affiliates do not sell or share Personal Information but may disclose it internally and to carefully vetted business partners and contractors, who are contractually obligated to protect your data. These third parties are thoroughly assessed to ensure they provide adequate data protection before any partnership is established.

Limiting Our Sharing – Opt Out/Privacy Choice

You may tell us not to share your personal information among Prudential companies for marketing purposes, and not to share consumer report information among Prudential companies, by “opting out” of such sharing. To limit our sharing for these purposes:

- Visit us online at: <https://www.prudential.com/links/privacy-center>.
- Call us at: 1-877-248-4019

Note that you are not able to limit our ability to disclose or share your personal information among Prudential companies and with other non-affiliated companies for servicing and administration purposes or where such disclosures are made as permitted by law.
