INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY & PROCESS

- The Strategic Bond Strategy is an actively managed strategy that seeks to achieve positive returns by investing across a broad range of fixed income sectors, securities and derivatives.
- The Strategy combines "best ideas" from macro top-down and credit bottom-up teams across PGIM Fixed income opportunistically using asset class and sector ideas to find alpha generating trades.
- Portfolio positioning at any given time is based on where we believe the most attractive risk-adjusted values lie across the investable universe.
- The Strategy is designed to provide flexibility to respond to changing market opportunities to both generate alpha and to mitigate downside risk, diversifying across individual issuers, industries and country positions.
- As for security selection, the Strategy takes an actively-managed, relative-value driven approach. Within our corporate bond allocation, for example, we continually analyze various security relationships in order to exploit temporary market inefficiencies. Each trade is intended to capture relative value, with the sum of all security selection expected to contribute a meaningful portion of expected excess return over time.
- As such, the Strategy is expected to perform best in markets with excess spread dislocations that it can capitalize on through relative value trading. In contrast, a low volatility interest rate environment with little spread or interest rate movements would most likely lead to more stable security-to-security relationships and, in turn, make it more difficult to outperform.
- We believe our philosophy for managing Strategic Bond portfolios will be successful in the future because it is diversified—relying on several proven strategies rather than a single interest rate, term structure, or credit decision.
 - Two of these strategies—subsector rotation and fundamental security selection—are strategies that we believe are equally appropriate in strong and weak markets, although naturally the subsectors and securities chosen will vary given the economic and market environment.

Your capital is at risk and the value of investments can go down as well as up. No investment strategy or management technique can guarantee returns or eliminate risk in any market environment. Where overseas investments are held the rate of currency may cause the value of investments to fluctuate. Investments in emerging markets are by their nature higher risk and potentially more volatile than those inherent in some established markets. Non-USD securities are converted to USD using a spot rate conversion. ¹Gross target excess returns do not reflect the deduction of investment advisory fees and other expenses, which will reduce returns and may be substantial. Net target excess returns reflect the deduction of a model fee equal to the highest fee borne by a portfolio utilizing the strategy. Targets are shown for illustrative purposes only, are subject to change and are current as of the date of this presentation only. Targets are objectives and should not be construed as providing any assurance or guarantee as to the results that may be realized in the future from investments in any asset or asset class described herein. If any of the assumptions used do not prove to be true, results may vary substantially. Available for professional and institutional investors only. INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

Markets

In Q1, rapidly shifting U.S. government policies—e.g., DOGE layoffs, tariffs, and the immigration crackdown—at a minimum interrupted the mystique of “American Exceptionalism.” Fixed income assets still posted positive total returns even as spreads widened for most sectors.

Meanwhile, the Fed left monetary policy unchanged, which led to market concerns of a slower-than-normal Fed reaction (because tariffs will initially increase inflation) giving way to weaker growth. In the Fed’s Summary of Economic Projection (SEP), growth was lowered to 1.7% from 2.1% and core inflation was lifted to 2.8% (from 2.5%). Fluctuating tariff policy has created uncertainty for both consumers and corporations. Our assessment of the U.S. macroeconomic consequences of tariffs includes a reduction in our 2025 U.S. GDP forecast from 2.2% to 1.5%.

The valuation gap between equities and bonds has narrowed significantly and all-in yields for fixed income remain attractive. Meanwhile, corporate supply has been limited, and demand for fixed income remains robust. Given the current market environment, we are focused on less cyclically sensitive segments such as high-quality structured products and carry-related instruments.

Portfolio

Overall security selection contributed to performance during the period, with selection in U.S. high yield corporates, emerging market high yield bonds, non-agency CMBS AA-and-below, U.S. investment grade corporates, and AA CLOs contributing the most.

Overall sector allocation also contributed, with overweights to the emerging market high yield, non-agency CMBS AA-and-below, CLO AA, and bank loan sectors contributing the most. This was partially offset by an underweight to the emerging market investment grade sector, which detracted the most.

Within credit, security selection in healthcare & pharmaceuticals, telecom, and banking contributed the most. Selection in building materials & home construction detracted the most from results.

Past performance is not a guarantee or a reliable indicator of future results and an investment could lose value. All investments involve risk, including the possible loss of capital. Performance results are stated gross and net of model fees. Gross returns do not reflect the deduction of investment advisory fees or any other expenses that may be incurred in the management of the account. Model net returns are calculated monthly by geometrically linking 1/12th of the highest fee charged to its institutional audience to the gross composite return. Gross and net performance data has been calculated in US dollars and reflects the deduction of transaction costs and withholding taxes, if any, and the reinvestment of income. Actual client fees may vary depending on, among other things, the applicable fee schedule and portfolio size. Returns for each client will be reduced by such fees and expenses as described in their individual contract. Advisory fees are disclosed in PGIM Fixed Income's SEC Form ADV Part 2A, which is available upon request. Fees may be higher for commingled accounts, insurance company separate accounts, and trust, corporate, or bank-owned life insurance products. The composite shown may include accounts that are group annuity or life insurance products issued by PFI's insurance company affiliate and its affiliated insurance subsidiaries.

Target annualized excess returns are presented on both a gross and net basis solely for the purpose of detailing the anticipated risk and reward characteristics of the Strategy in order to facilitate comparisons with other investment types. Gross targets do not reflect the deduction of fees and other expenses to be borne by accounts using the Strategy, which will reduce returns and, in the aggregate, may be substantial. Net targets reflect the deduction of model fees and expenses equal to the highest fees borne by a portfolio utilizing the strategy. The target returns presented herein are not a prediction, projection, expectation or guarantee of future performance. There are significant risks and limitations in using target returns, including targets that are based upon assumptions regarding future events and situations, which may prove not to be accurate or may not materialize. Further, the target returns stated herein are based on an assumption that economic, market and other conditions will not deteriorate and, in some cases, will improve. The target returns are also based on models, estimates and assumptions about performance believed to be reasonable under the circumstances, but actual returns of the Strategy and its investments will depend on, among other factors, the ability to consummate attractive investments, future operating results, the value of the assets and market conditions at the time of disposition, any related transaction costs and the timing and manner of sale, all of which may differ from the assumptions and circumstances on which the targeted returns are based. PGIM Fixed Income believes that the target returns for the Strategy and each investment type reflect in part a measure of the risk PGIM Fixed Income will be taking with respect to the strategy and investments in that investment type. There can be no assurance that any investments, any of the investment types or the strategy will achieve comparable returns to those targeted herein or that PGIM Fixed Income will be able to implement its investment strategy and investment approach or achieve its investment objectives. Target returns do not take into account cash flows into and out of the portfolio, as well as other factors, which could have an impact on actual performance of a client utilizing the Strategy. Accordingly, target returns should not be used as a primary basis for an investor's decision to invest in the Strategy.

The financial indices referenced herein are provided for informational purposes only. The use of benchmarks has inherent limitations. Portfolio holdings and characteristics may differ from those of the benchmark(s). Additional factors impacting the performance displayed herein may include portfolio-rebalancing, the timing of cash flows, and differences in volatility, none of which impact the performance of the financial indices. Financial indices may or may not reflect the reinvestment of income, if any, but do not reflect the impact of fees, applicable taxes or trading costs which may reduce the returns shown.
